

PARIVARTAN SCHOLARSHIP

Savita Dawe a Canadian citizen, now an NRI was born in a middle-class Garhwali family of lower caste. Her father was a clerk in government office and had a social taboo not to provide higher education to girls because there might be a restrain to find out a good groom for an educated girl in their own community, which she faced. But she had a passion for learning. At a young age she knew that when a girl attained education and empowerment she can make her own decisions not for only herself but for the society and can also try to raise the standard for living for herself, her children and those who have been deprived to do so.

She pursued B.A. from Punjab University, Chandigarh and MBA from Manipal University. After completing master's degree, she spent 12 years in Dubai before embarking her journey to Canada. Now she is the head of Human Resource Department for a renowned real estate company.

She had a pain for a certain group of students of the area where she was born so one and half year ago she herself contacted Parivartan Grameen Samaj Sevi Sanstha, Pauri Garhwal and put a proposal to start a Scholarship Programme for students specially girls who are being left behind due to poverty and some other causes. The goal is that students always focused on getting education. She wants to pave the way for their higher education by introducing Parivartan Scholarship Program and it started in the year 2020-21. 10 students were selected in the merit but 23 students were supported with the amount she provided. Now the programme is continued.
